DAY 3 Vienna –243km– Budapest

- Heroes' Square Hősök tere is the main square of Budapest, the capital of Hungary, and the square is impressive. Located at the bottom end of Andrassy Street, it is connected to the city park. There are two important buildings on the square: the Museum of Fine Arts on the left, and the Art Hall on the right. Heroes' Square was built in Hungary to commemorate the 1,000–year history of the founding of the country, and in the middle is Budapest's famous landmark: the Millennium Monument, with a 36–meter–high centennial column. There are statues of 7 celebrities carved on the left and right sides. Statues of 7 tribal leaders from Hungary's creation in the 9th century, as well as statues of other historical figures in Hungary. Construction of the monument began in 1896 and was completed in 1929. The first five statues from the left were originally counted by the people who ruled the Austro–Hungarian Empire, but were destroyed and rebuilt during World War II.

- Fisherman's Castle Halászbástya (entrance fee included). It is another interesting building with neo–Gothic colors on the castle hill, and the night is the most charming time of the Fisherman's Castle, under the illumination of the lights, like a fairy tale sand castle, exuding a silvery white light that touches people's hearts, making people almost forget that the Fisherman's Castle was originally a pillbox built by fishermen for fortifications in the Middle Ages, and another legend is that this place was originally a place for fish trading in the Middle Ages, and in the 19th century, during the War of Independence, fishermen held on to their enemies here, and then gradually became a common name for Fisherman's Castle.

It is said that a fire in 1731 destroyed the buildings of the Old Town, and only the stone door with the portrait of the Virgin Mary was not damaged. After passing through the stone gate, you will arrive at St. Mark's Church, which is famous for its beautiful mosaic collage roof, which is located in the heart of the old city and occupies a small area, but in the distance of a red–tiled Eastern European city, the characteristic roof of the church is impressive.

The height difference forms countless natural waterfalls, and the four seasons landscape presents different appearances with canyons, waterfalls, and lakes, with the depth of the water, the height difference, the algae, the mineral content, and the light refraction, so that each lake has a different style. Take a traffic boat to push the water waves to the lower lake area, the scenery is exquisite and beautiful, but approachable, along the trail that has been arranged by the lake, from time to time you will hear the muddy stampede sound in front and back, in the trail sinking into the edge of the lake, fish, mallard ducks curiously explore the passing passengers, free to swim, the lake water is clear, the sun shines obliquely on the bottom of the lake soil and tree branches are clearly visible, this walk is like a theater performance, the finale is left to the end, from the trickle to the murmuring and moving, and finally the height difference of 78 meters waterfall in one go.
